The documentary, made in partnership with Magnum Photos in anticipation of the 20th anniversary in 2021 of the September 11 terror attacks, is a thoughtful, intelligent and emotional reflection of the tragic events as seen through the work and memories of the photographers who were in Manhattan that day. Crucially, the film will focus entirely on the still images captured by Magnum Photographers each presented as a Decisive Moment. This powerful and revealing documentary will interweave personal testimonies with extraordinary photographic archive to forge the over-arching narrative of the film.
The Moors Murderers

6 x 52 min, HD

The 1960s Moors Murders are Britain’s most notorious crimes. Ian Brady and Myra Hindley horribly murdered five children and buried the bodies on the local moors. The ‘trial of the century’, the mothers’ grief and the decades-long police searches for the victims’ remains fuelled public anguish. Brady and Hindley became icons of evil. From behind bars they manipulated the mothers, the press, the police and British society for fifty years.

This definitive series tells the full fifty-years-long story of The Moors Murders. With an extended interview of the only eye-witness to any of the murders and unprecedented access to Brady’s and Hindley’s never-before-seen prison correspondence, this is compelling and chilling viewing.

Fascinating New Zealand
1 x 90 min/ 2 x 52 min, HD
This documentary draws the viewer on a fascinating journey into the breath-taking origins and incredible present of New Zealand, exploring the islands by land, by sea and from the air and discovering the astonishing diversity of this natural paradise. On our journey through the country, we travel to places that are particular to New Zealand, getting to know the native plants and animals. We encounter places that still tell the story of how New Zealand originated: rugged fjords, bizarre high mountain peaks, steaming volcanic landscapes and spectacular cave systems. These are crossed with lush rainforests and fields that profit from the fertile volcanic soil. Few countries in the world have as many different natural spaces to offer as New Zealand.

Kinbaku is originally a warrior practice designed to neutralize the prisoners made by samurai on the battlefield. In the late Edo period, when Japan was experiencing an unprecedented period of peace, it became the pretext of love practices. It involves tying a person up using simple yet visually intricate patterns, usually with several pieces of thin rope. From Paris to Tokyo, through London and Tarifa, we meet Japanese masters, Western pioneers and major players of the discipline.

Outcast: The Persecution of the Huguenots
2 x 48 min/ 1 x 90 min, HD

In 1685, the French king Louis XIV triggered the persecution of the Huguenots, a French protestant minority religion, with one stroke of a pen. They were mercilessly persecuted, they were killed, raped, and robbed, they were put in dungeons or they became galley slaves. At the end of the 17th century when there is nothing left, more than 200,000 Huguenots fled to the Protestant territories of Europe: to German principalities, but also to England, the Netherlands or America. It is one of the largest flight movements of the early modern period. With their influence on the economy, science and culture, the Huguenots changed their host countries and left traces that can still be felt today.

The Greatest Air Race
1 x 60 min, HD

The Greatest Air Race is presented and narrated by astronaut Andy Thomas as he embarks on a trans-continental journey to retell one of the world’s greatest aviation stories.

In 1919, four Australians became the first men to fly across the globe. They flew from London to Darwin in a rudimentary plane made of canvas, wire and wood, sitting in open cockpits with only a compass for navigation. They completed the 11,000 mile journey in 28 days.

It was an extraordinary feat of endurance and a milestone for mankind, opening the world to trans-global flight. Yet 100 years later their achievement is all but forgotten. As the centenary approaches, it’s time to inspire a new generation.

Does It Fart?

Format Available
10 x 4 min, HD

Does It Fart? is a fun-meets-science kids series that investigates all the amazing creatures in our world who pass gas, by bringing together science, entertainment, and humour to provide one smell of a good time. With the help of zoologist Rosie, Jr. scientists and fart fanatics, Ilamaria and Joey set out each episode to discover which animals fart, the biology behind their breaking of wind, and what effect their flatulence has on the environment and other species.

Molly and Mack

20 x 15 min, HD

Molly is 7 years old. Her big brother Mack is 18 years old. Her Dad, James, is single and very busy at work. So, when school is over somebody needs to look after Molly and she knows who she’d like that person to be – her big brother Mack. Mack’s not so sure. Mack runs “Vintage Toys and Records” stall in the Big Hub, a large old Hall used by the whole Community of Bridgetown. He hasn’t got time to look after his little sister! But family always comes first and he agrees to look after Molly. For Molly this is a wonderful opportunity to hang out with her brother as they share adventures together in the market with the warm, funny, loving community who work there.

We’re Going on a Bear Hunt

1 x 30 min, HD

Adapted from the much loved International Best Seller by author Michael Rosen, the animation follows five siblings setting off on an unlikely adventure in search of a bear. Along their adventure they come up against a host of unexpected obstacles. Rising to the challenge, the children venture through long wavy grass, thick oozy mud, a big dark forest and a swirling whirling snowstorm.

The Story of Irish Street Art
1 x 50 min, HD
This documentary gives a snapshot of modern Ireland through the lens of street art. In recent years Ireland has seen an explosion in street art along with enormous social change. This film explores the street art scene, from humble beginnings projecting political murals on Belfast’s walls to today’s superstar artists and their influence over modern Ireland.

The Love Experiment

Can 36 questions make two complete strangers fall in love?

Humans crave connection. Yet almost 50% of our daily interaction is now with a screen. Social isolation is a growing health epidemic. A third of marriages still end in divorce. And the world at large remains in conflict, unable to find common ground.

What if one social experiment could solve it all?

In The Love Experiment format, we attempt to reconnect the world in an authentic way: via an uplifting social experiment – with a basis in hard science. Introducing the travelling laboratory that invites single strangers, estranged couples and total opposites to bear their souls to one another.

24 Hours: Police

24 Hours: Police compares frontline policing on the violent angry streets of four international cities. Police are filmed in action in the same 24 hour period in these cities on the worst night of the week. Witness first-hand what life is really like for police and see the differences between policing methods and overall crime statistics in each city.

The Commute

Ten Cars, ten journeys. What do people really talk about in cars?

The Commute takes the mundanity of the morning journey and used it to delve into the daily conversation.

The intimate fixed-rig format captures sibling squabbles, political debates and road-rage tantrums as cars up and down the country make their way to school, work and morning appointments. It also results in a strong array of entertaining debate as contributors react and discuss world events and news.

Redesign My Brain

TV personality Todd Sampson is on a quest for a better brain. He puts brain training to the test as he undergoes a radical brain makeover in a documentary series on the revolutionary new science of neuroplasticity. In other words, with specific training, anyone can become smarter, increase their memory capacity, and reverse mental aging. Sampson puts that premise to the test, as over the course of three months he undertakes a scientifically endorsed training program to turn his ordinary brain into a “super-brain”.

This unique, transformative and interactive experience ended up as one of the most watched Australian science documentary series.
